Financial Study association Amsterdam
Introduction

From the 8th of September until the 19th of September 2020, 26 Dutch academics get the chance to experience the promising and exciting world of investment banking. This year the FSA organizes the London Banking Tour for the 27th time.

During this Tour, you get to see what life is like as an investment banker in London by visiting 13 of the most prestigious investment banks of the world. You will attend intriguing presentations, solve challenging cases, drink and dine with employees of these banks and enjoy the city of London.

The city of London is one of the world's leading financial centres. Hundreds of financial institutions from all over the world have settled in the city. London is the place to be for everyone interested in banking and investment banking in particular.

Working for an investment bank in this city is a unique opportunity that hardly compares to any other. It means total dedication to your job and it absorbs a lot of time and effort. The advantages are obvious and the honour of working for an investment bank is significant. It is an experience that will pay off for the rest of your professional career.

In previous years, most students who participated in the London Banking Tour have received offers to start an internship or even a fulltime position at least at one of the participating banks. Do not hesitate and apply for the investment banking event of the year!
London Banking Tour
September 2020 - Program

Tuesday, Kick off
The tour will kick off in Amsterdam at one of the leading Dutch investment banks: Kempen. The day will start with the first investment banking experience. After this, the day will continue at ABN AMRO with a visit at their Zuidas office.

Wednesday, London by train
In the morning we will depart from Amsterdam by train to arrive in London only a few hours later. After dropping off our luggage at the hotel, we will spend the rest of the day at Rothschild & Co.

Thursday, A full day
The second day in London will start with at Citi bank, where we will stay until after lunch. This will follow by a visit at Nomura with diner and drinks at their roof terrace.

Friday, Making miles
After a full day of bank visits on Thursday, this day will start with some free time in the morning. Rested from the extra hours of sleep, we will spend the afternoon with a visit at J.P. Morgan.

Saturday & Sunday, Weekend in London
The weekend will consist of mostly free time and an alumni drink. The free time can be used to wander around the city of London, visit museums and/or do some sightseeing. The alumni drink will take place Saturday evening and is an opportunity to meet London Banking Tour participants of previous years who are now working in London.
Monday, A brand new week
Completely refuelled over the weekend, Monday will start with a visit at Deutsche Bank. After experiencing Deutsche bank, the day is followed by a visit at Morgan Stanley in the afternoon.

Tuesday, Keep on going
This day will be equally busy as Monday with a visit to the Royal Bank of Canada in the morning and a visit at Barclays in the afternoon. Making it the last day with two bank visits of the tour.

Wednesday, Half way there
With the past couple of days being quite busy, Wednesday is all about visiting Goldman Sachs.

Thursday, Two more to go
Most banks have had a visit and only two more banks will follow, but definitely not the least. Today BAML will host the afternoon programme.

Friday, Last but not least
All things come to end and the London Banking Tour is no exception. But before this happens, we will visit one more investment bank; Lazard.

Saturday, Back to Amsterdam
Now that we have visited all the banks, it is time to go back to Amsterdam and say each other goodbye after an amazing experience.
We would like to emphasize that applications are open for students of any discipline, from any university and in any phase of their studies (bachelor or master). Please note that you must be fluent in Dutch. Of course, a keen interest in banking and finance is required!

The application deadline is the 1st of June 2020. To apply we would like to receive your resume, grade lists (high school and university) and motivation letter. Since the participating banks will receive your documents, applications have to be written in English. Apply through our website https://fsa.nl/for-students/event/london-banking-tour-2019-2020/.

All resumes, grades and motivation letters will be sent to the participating investment banks. They will make a selection of students, whom we will interview. You will be informed about this selection on the 12th of June. The interviews will take place from the 15th of June until the 19th of June 2020. Eventually, based on the selection made by the investment banks and your motivation in the interview, a group of 24 students will be selected for the London Banking Tour. The final selection will be announced on the 25th of June 2020.

Every participant in the London Banking Tour is required to pay a participant’s fee of €300. This includes overnight stays, breakfast, and flights. Other expenses are not included.

Gabriele Schulting (Participant LBT 2019)
Current study: Financial Management
Erasmus University Rotterdam

Starting at Lazard this September
After completing my bachelor degree Economics & Business at the UvA, I followed an internship at ABN AMRO bank in Amsterdam. After having enjoyed working there, I came across the Ladies Banking Event of the FSA, which featured female executives of prominent investment banks that join the London Banking Tour. As the sector and the international aspect attracted me, I made up my mind. Driven by excitement, I applied for the LBT and I have never regretted it since. Little would I have known what an amazing time was awaiting me.

Over the course of 12 days, we visited 13 investment banks in both London and Amsterdam. After kicking-off the first two days in Amsterdam, a 10-day program in London was still ahead of us. The schedule varied; some days you had the whole morning off and other days you were visiting two banks in the morning and afternoon, both ending with a lunch or drinks. In addition, you will have the weekend to explore the City of London and be able to do everything you want.

Although every investment bank is different, one thing that you will encounter everywhere is the ‘group case’. These cases are based on past deals and can really come to life sometimes. It is funny to see how people can lose themselves in their roles and the group dynamic that flows from it. Aside from the cases and presentations, most banks organize extras such as, quizzes, tours on their trading floors or visits to the bank’s archive. Moreover, it is good to know, that they also pay attention to jobs within Trading, Corporate Banking, Private Banking and Private Equity segments of banks.

The lunches and drinks are the perfect opportunity to get to know the banks and its people. After the drinks, most banks invited us to join them in the city to party in a bar or club. As you can imagine, it was not unusual to find yourself in the club during the early morning, knowing that the program will continue in a just few hours.

To summarize, the London Banking Tour is truly a unique experience, whereby you get a rare ‘sneak peek’ of the cultures of the different banks and how it feels to actually work there. My advice is to not hesitate to ask questions and listen to their experiences, as the people and culture are most important in deciding where to work or not. The chances of getting an internship or analyst starting position after joining the tour become significantly higher, as interested banks will contact you shortly after the tour to invite you for the application procedure. However, getting to know the investment banks is not the only advantage, because meeting the 24 people that will join you on the journey is an extra bonus.

Is investment banking something for you? – Well, only one way to find out!
The Financial Study association Amsterdam (FSA) is the largest financial study association in the Netherlands with over 4500 members from different universities and more than 100 prestigious partners. The FSA wants you to meet your future employer! We support students in making the step from university to the labour market. The FSA informs students about job opportunities via various online channels, but primarily and more importantly we facilitate face to face contact between students and employers.

The FSA organizes a total of 21 career events for students throughout the academic year in the field of finance, business, accountancy, consultancy, marketing and economics. Participating in FSA activities is an opportunity for students to meet possible future employers and gives companies the possibility to meet motivated and talented students in the final stages of their studies.

Our portfolio of partner companies is unmatched in the Netherlands. We host events for the world's largest investment banks, consultancy firms, asset managers and multinationals with ABN AMRO, De Nederlandsche Bank, Heineken, Kempen and PwC as our main partners. Besides the London Banking Tour, the FSA organizes plenty of other interesting activities. The following enumeration gives a brief summary of these activities:

Through their FSA membership, students are able to participate in our projects and stay informed about the career opportunities that our partners have to offer. Additionally, members can further their engagement and gain more experience by joining a committee or pursuing a board function. The FSA helps you to make the next step in your career!
